

Introduction to Growing Grapes

Q: Is the wine from these varieties actually good quality or is it just acceptable where few other grapes can be grown?

A: These varieties really can make excellent wines when well grown and vinified. Proof of that are the numerous medals wineries in Minnesota and elsewhere have been winning in national and international competitions with these new varieties. They are also now starting to be planted in mainstream eastern wine regions where growers have many other options to choose from.
